

How the American Rescue Plan has changed health care

What do these changes mean for you and your family?

In March of 2021, the American Rescue Plan Act was signed — a $1.9 trillion relief package providing funding across a wide range of areas ... including helping many Americans save money on health care.

So, what do these changes mean for the average person when it comes to purchasing health insurance?

Changes to the health insurance tax credit

The American Rescue Plan includes a change to the requirements for a tax credit when purchasing individual and family health insurance coverage. So, even if you weren't eligible to save before you may be eligible now.

Federal reports make it clear that with this new law it's more important that you shop to get the best coverage at the right price:

- More affordable options are available
- More people will now qualify for tax credits — almost 70% more; and it's ...
- More likely that your insurance premiums will go down — decreasing up to $50 per person per month and $85 per policy a month

According to the HHS, Georgians are saving 45% due to the American Rescue Plan tax credit.

These important changes mean that this year, we strongly recommend you take the time to carefully shop for the best health insurance coverage for you and your family for 2022.

The new savings could have a major impact on what you and your family pay for health insurance. More than that, you could find that you can now get a much better plan for less than you were paying before.

We're making it easy to shop for coverage

At Alliant Health Plans, we're dedicated to helping you understand the American Rescue Plan's impact, and how you can save money on health care costs.

To learn more, speak to an Alliant Health Insurance Advisor at 706-250-8319, Monday-Friday 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. or Shop Alliant Plans online 24/7.

More information on next page ...

Alliant can help you take advantage of these new savings.

Here are 4 things to remember as you shop for the best 2022 health insurance for you and your family...

1. Due to the changes to the Federal Government's tax credit eligibility, more people will now be able to save when purchasing individual and family health insurance coverage.
2. Even if you weren't eligible before, you may be eligible now. That means you could be getting help to pay for a quality health plan like SoloCare from Alliant Health Plans.
3. You could now get a plan with more benefits for less than you paid previously.
4. You may be able to enroll in high-quality health care for as little as $10 a month.

More choices. Lower rates. It's time to shop!

With expanded tax credit eligibility, you and your family may be able to get a better plan with more benefits — and pay less than you did in years past.

But those new savings aren't the only NEW things you need to consider when shopping for the right plan – Alliant Health Plans offer more new benefits than ever before, including:

- NEW plans including dental coverage and chiropractic care
- NEW plan options including both PPO and HMO plans
- NEW health and wellness program, Live4It, where you can earn incentives for improving your health

You can't afford not to shop this year. Alliant Health Plans can help you find the right low-cost high-quality health care plan for 2022 ... after all, we've been serving Georgia's individuals and families for more than 20 years.

Speak to an Alliant Health Insurance Advisor at 706-250-8319, Monday-Friday 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m., or visit us online to learn more.